

First Grade News

Mrs. Donnini

November 7, 2013

Dear Parents,

I want to thank everyone for coming to conferences. It really helps to put a "mom and dad" with an actual person! ☺ If you were unable to attend and would still like to meet let me know.

We are going to start our Read at Home program soon. Please be sure to read with your student nightly and have them bring it back on their scheduled day. Hopefully, everyone found their November reading log calendar in last week's Friday folder. Remember each student is supposed to read 180 minutes or more to get a Pizza Hut Certificate.

Star Student

We didn't have a star this week; but we had fun letting some of our other students enjoy some of the Star Student responsibilities.

Thanksgiving Break is November 28th and 29th.
Enjoy your kiddos! I sure have been. ☺

we are learning

Reading

This week we worked on finding the main idea in stories. We also worked talked about how a sentence has two parts. A who? And a what?.

Writing

We are working on checking over our work by being "Star Writers." They really enjoy having different names for their first grade expectations. I think it helps them remember to do their jobs.

math $+\frac{2}{4}$

We worked on grouping and counting objects by 10s and we graphed our findings. We also did a little review from Unit 1 just to make sure we haven't forgotten anything. ☺

Science/Social Studies

We are working on understanding timelines and we are starting to discuss our family trees. In science, we learned a little about magnets.
